Metropolitan Campus degree candidates, see page 18.
FDU-Vancouver degree candidates, see page 36.
See inside back cover for arena seating plan.

Note: An undergraduate student whose cumulative grade point ratio (CGPR) for four years is 3.85 will receive his or her degree summa cum laude; if the CGPR is 3.67, magna cum laude; if the CGPR is 3.33, cum laude. Only weighted grades will be included in computing honors. Only the credits taken at Fairleigh Dickinson University, a minimum of 54 credits, will be used in this evaluation.

Due to time constraints associated with the printing of the programs, the honors listed therein were determined as of the end of the fall semester. The final listing for the commencement period will include those honors earned as of the completion of the spring semester, and diplomas will reflect this achievement.

This program does not represent an official list of certified graduates.
Jill Abramson
Doctor of Humane Letters

As a child growing up in New York’s Upper West Side, reading The New York Times was a way of life — your “religion,” as you often say. The newspaper was so revered by your family that, at one point, two copies were delivered to your home. “What The New York Times said was the absolute truth,” you later explained.

Your remarkable career took you away from New York and The New York Times, but both remained close to your heart. You became a stringer for Time magazine while still a student at Harvard University. After college, you did stints at NBC News, the American Lawyer and Legal Times, where you became editor at age 31. In 1988, you joined The Wall Street Journal’s Washington, D.C., bureau as an investigative reporter, eventually rising to deputy bureau chief.

You returned to your childhood roots in 1997 by landing a job at The New York Times as enterprise editor in Washington, D.C. Rising quickly, you became the paper’s Washington editor in 1999 and first woman Washington bureau chief in 2000. You proved to be both demanding and popular. “She was a great team leader, a loyal friend, someone you’d want in the trenches with you. But if you didn’t meet her high professional standards, you were not on her team,” said one reporter.

Coming home in 2003 to become the first woman managing editor at the Times, you commemorated the occasion by getting a tattoo on your shoulder of a New York City subway token inscribed with, “Good for one fare only.” You said it was “a perfect combination of a great philosophy and the city that I love and was born in.” Known for being tough, you proved it in 2007 — recovering from serious injuries and returning to work after being struck by a truck while walking in Manhattan.

In 2011, you took the helm as the first woman in the 160-year history of the Times to serve as executive editor, saying it was “the honor of my life” and like “ascending to Valhalla.”

Today, we are pleased to recognize your success and celebrate your historic achievement as the first woman to serve as top editor of the world’s most powerful newspaper. We applaud your leadership and your significance in this transitional moment for professional women.

Therefore, by virtue of the authority vested in me by the Board of Trustees of Fairleigh Dickinson University, the faculty concurring, I hereby confer upon you the degree of Doctor of Humane Letters, honoris causa, with all the rights, privileges and responsibilities thereunto attached, and cause you to be invested with the hood appropriate to that degree.

Cory A. Booker
Doctor of Humane Letters

Your meteoric rise to national political prominence is not surprising to those who have followed that trajectory and applauded your spectacular — if sometimes unorthodox — efforts to transform the City of Newark, N.J.

In a PBS interview with journalist Bill Moyers, he said this of you: “Cory Booker had long been driven to save Newark. His commitment began when he left the comfortable suburbs to move into the city’s notorious Brick Towers housing project — now demolished — for eight years. As mayor, Booker has defied liberals and conservatives alike with innovations in every department of city government.”

You grew up in Harrington Park, an affluent and mostly white suburban town in Bergen County. You were the privileged son of Cary and Carolyn Booker, who were among the first black executives at IBM. A star football player at Stanford University, you graduated with an undergraduate degree in political science and a master’s in sociology. You won a prestigious Rhodes scholarship to study modern history at Queens College in Oxford, England, and went on to pursue a law degree at Yale University.

You became a catalyst for change by starting several free legal clinics for low-income residents of New Haven, Conn. In 1998, you entered the political arena with an upset victory to Newark Municipal Council over a four-term incumbent. Following a failed mayoral run to oust the city government in 2002, you ran again in 2006 and were elected by the largest margin in Newark’s history — carrying your entire slate of candidates for City Council to victory as well.

Your unwavering commitment, perseverance and remarkable achievements have not gone unnoticed. New York’s Yeshiva University awarded you an honorary degree “for your bold vision for Newark and setting a national standard for urban transformation.” Newark’s own New Jersey Institute of Technology honored you “for your outstanding career in public service as mayor of the City of Newark.”

You were named by Time magazine as one of the 100 most influential people in the world in 2011. In nominating you for that select group, Oprah Winfrey observed, “His enormous intelligence is surpassed only by his heart. He is compassionate, committed, charismatic and generous of spirit. He defines servant leader.”

Therefore, by virtue of the authority vested in me by the Board of Trustees of Fairleigh Dickinson University, the faculty concurring, I hereby confer upon you the degree of Doctor of Humane Letters, honoris causa, with all the rights, privileges and responsibilities thereunto attached, and cause you to be invested with the hood appropriate to that degree.
Zygmunt Wilf
Doctor of Humane Letters

Two years ago, your alma mater recognized you with its prestigious Pinnacle Award, accorded to accomplished FDU graduates who make a difference in the world. There could be no more appropriate recipient of that honor. Your achievements have taken you to the top of the business world; your compassion and concern for others has been demonstrated by a humble dedication to community service and philanthropy seldom equaled.

Your beloved father and mother were both survivors of the Holocaust. Their experiences created an unbreakable bond of family unity and a heightened sense of social responsibility that would define your life’s work.

Your family immigrated to the United States in the early 1950s, shortly after your birth. By 1954, your father and brother founded Garden Homes, a real estate company. Two decades later, you joined the family business after earning your juris doctorate from New York Law School. Today, Garden Homes owns and manages more than 60,000 apartments and has built more than 40,000 for-sale homes. A subsidiary, Garden Commercial Properties, controls more than 26-million square feet of retail and commercial space.

In 2005, you embarked on yet another “family business” with the Minnesota Vikings football franchise. Together with your brother and a cousin, you own a controlling interest in the team; you serve as chairman of the board. The acquisition culminated your lifelong love of the sport and a family tradition of attending Giants games dating back more than a half century.

You have shared the wealth of your many successes through transformational gifts to educational institutions, human service agencies and Jewish welfare organizations and temples throughout New Jersey, New York and Pennsylvania. Your three family foundations have contributed millions of dollars to philanthropic causes.

You have lead and served with distinction as a board member of Yeshiva University, Albert Einstein College of Medicine and the Rabbinical College of America. Your honors include the Louis Brandeis Humanitarian Award of the Zionist Organization of America and the David Ben Gurion Peace Medal of State of Israel Bonds. And, lest we never forget the lessons of the past, you have honored the memory of your parents through your strong support of New Jersey’s acclaimed Holocaust education program.

Therefore, by virtue of the authority vested in me by the Board of Trustees of Fairleigh Dickinson University, the faculty concurring, I hereby confer upon you the degree of Doctor of Humane Letters, honoris causa, with all the rights, privileges and responsibilities thereunto attached, and cause you to be invested with the hood appropriate to that degree.

Student Pinnacle Award

Jessica Rose Dingman College at Florham

Jessica Rose Dingman, of Roxbury, N.J., is the first generation in her family to attend college — she is a biology major currently obtaining her master’s degree in FDU’s QUEST Program with a 3.96 grade point ratio. She is in the University Honors Program. Dingman has been the face of the Academic Support Center where she tutored for several science courses. She has run review sessions for both the Chemistry Club and for Tri-Beta, the biology honors society of which she is a member. Dingman is a sister of Phi Sigma Sigma where she has previously held the positions of recording and correspondence secretary and scholarship chair, which monitors the sisters’ academics and provides tutoring. With her sorority she volunteers in charities such as Relay for Life, various breast cancer walks and the local food pantry. She plans to teach middle-school science.

Juliana Grossi Fiorentino FDU-Vancouver

Juliana Grossi Fiorentino, of Belo Horizonte, Brazil, has played an active role on campus as president of the Students Association, a supportive orientation leader and a devoted member of the Sustainability Committee, where she helped develop strategies that create a sustainable campus environment. A Global Scholar, she engaged in volunteer work and participated in fundraising and social activities on and off campus. Fiorentino came to FDU-Vancouver with a degree in psychology from the Pontifical Catholic University in Brazil and continued her education with a B.A. in individualized studies with a concentration in business at FDU. She earned one of the highest grade point ratios of her graduating class and had her name on the Honor’s List in every semester. In addition, as a student worker, Fiorentino helped develop new marketing strategies and recruit students from Brazil. She now works as an admissions assistant on campus.

Morrine Auma Omolo Metropolitan Campus

Morrine Auma Omolo, an international student from Kenya, left her family and country to study biochemistry at FDU with a scholarship from Zawadi Africa, a non-governmental office that sponsors African women to study in the United States. Omolo has worked in the Admissions Office and for the dean of University College: Arts • Science • Professional Studies; volunteered at a hospital in the oncology wing; interned with Metropolitan Neurosurgeons at Englewood Hospital and FDU’s Office of Global Learning; mentored a sophomore student; and joined the Pre-health Professional’s Club. In the Student Government Association, as Auxiliary Services Committee of University Students senator, she helped coordinate the change of the meal plan and improved relations between students and the service providers. She is in the University Honors Program. Omolo plans to work for a year, return home and visit her family and then attend graduate school in the United States.

THE PRESIDENT

Widely known for his commitment to international education and to fostering cross-cultural understanding, J. Michael Adams joined Fairleigh Dickinson University as president on July 1, 1999.

At the University, he has inspired a mission building on long-standing traditions. The mission — to prepare world citizens through global education — was adopted by the Board of Trustees and endorsed by the faculty in 2000. Since then, Adams has led the development of numerous initiatives designed to integrate the global mission throughout the University.

Prior to joining FDU, Adams served 15 years as academic dean of the Nesbitt College of Design Arts at Drexel University in Philadelphia, Pa. Adams led the transformation of Nesbitt College into one of the premier design schools in the United States.

He went to Drexel from the State University of New York at Oswego, where he served as chair of the department of industrial technology and professor of education. Adams also held positions as director of research development (1979 to 1981) and dean of the alumni college (1982 to 1984). From 1975 to 1976, he served as a U.S. Congressional Fellow.

The author of nine books, Adams’ publications and research cover a wide variety of topics including print, publishing, communication and career development as well as topics specific to higher education. His most recent book, Coming of Age in a Globalized World: The Next Generation, explores the impact of globalization and examines the case for world citizenship through global education.

Adams is active with many national and international education organizations. He was named president of the International Association of University Presidents (IAUP), 2011–2014. He also serves on the U.N./IAUP Commission on Disarmament Education, Conflict Resolution and Peace and is a National Council member of the United Nations Association of the United States of America. Adams also is a member of the Steering Committee of the World Bank's Researchers Alliance for Development.
Adams holds a B.S. from Illinois State University, Normal; an M.S. from University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign; and a Ph.D. from Southern Illinois University, Carbondale. In 1997, he attended Harvard University's Institute for Educational Management and, in 1999, Harvard's Institute for New Presidents.

THE UNIVERSITY

Fairleigh Dickinson University looks back with tremendous pride to the accomplishments achieved and looks ahead to even greater levels of excellence.

Founded in 1942 by Dr. Peter Sammartino and his wife, Sylvia (Sally), Fairleigh Dickinson University has grown into the largest private university in New Jersey. More than 12,000 students from 44 states and 81 other countries are enrolled on the FDU's two campuses in New Jersey and its overseas campuses in Wroxton, England, and Vancouver, British Columbia, Canada.

Beginning as a two-year junior college in Rutherford, today the University offers nearly 100 degree programs at the associate, baccalaureate, master's and doctoral levels. Fairleigh Dickinson University strongly emphasizes an international component to its curriculum and provides its students with a global and multicultural perspective.

The University has consistently been an innovator, adapting to the changing educational demands of the students it serves. Responding to the need for higher education in northern New Jersey, the college expanded to a four-year curricula in 1948.

In 1954, the first graduate program — a master's degree in business administration — was offered, and Bergen Junior College in Teaneck was purchased as a second campus. In 1956, Fairleigh Dickinson attained university status. One year later, the beautiful 178-acre Vanderbilt-Twombly estate in Florham Park and Madison, New Jersey, was acquired to serve as another campus.

FDU became the first American university to own a campus in England when it acquired Wroxton College from Trinity College, Oxford University. Opened in 1965, Wroxton College offers American students an array of graduate and undergraduate programs as well as an enriching cultural experience. Formerly a 13th-century abbey, Wroxton College is now a beautifully restored and modernized Jacobean mansion.

Established in 1998, the Anthony J. Petrocelli College of Continuing Studies addresses the special educational needs of nontraditional students, including adult learners.

Over the years Fairleigh Dickinson University has maintained its commitment to broadening global horizons and fostering greater international understanding. In 2000, the Board of Trustees adopted a newly focused mission for FDU: to prepare students for world citizenship through global education.

In addition to Wroxton College, the University opened its second international campus in Vancouver, British Columbia, Canada, in fall 2007.

Each of the University campuses has developed a unique character and vitality. The Metropolitan Campus, located in Teaneck, features a university atmosphere with an international perspective attracting nearly equal numbers of graduate and undergraduate students from throughout the United States and around the world. Fairleigh Dickinson’s College at Florham in suburban Madison offers a classical undergraduate and graduate experience for the contemporary world in a small college setting.

With the depth and breadth of its faculty and programs, Fairleigh Dickinson University has positioned itself as a quality, comprehensive private university serving the citizens of New Jersey and beyond.

CLASS OF 1962

The Fairleigh Dickinson University community is pleased to acknowledge and congratulate members of the class of 1962 as they celebrate a milestone this year — the 50th anniversary of their graduation.

TRADITIONALLY…

Traditions link the present to the past and the future. In addition to the academic customs exhibited in the Commencement ceremony, Fairleigh Dickinson University has several unique traditions on display today.

At Fairleigh Dickinson, the academic processional includes the bagpipers, a practice dating back to the University’s eighth commencement in 1951. Since then, it has become a tradition at graduation and other ceremonies for the pipers to play.

Other traditions recognize Fairleigh Dickinson University’s global and multicultural background. International flags have become a part of many ceremonies and events. Whenever a spiritual thought is appropriate, a diversity of views is presented. In addition to the singing of the “Alma Mater,” the University has returned to a tradition established by its founder, Peter Sammartino, of having all join in the singing of the time-honored “Auld Lang Syne.”

THE ACADEMIC COSTUME

The academic regalia worn by University officials and faculty at today’s Commencement ceremony are infrequently seen outside of formal academic occasions. The gowns, caps and hoods once were the regular apparel of European university students and faculty during the Middle Ages. At that time, both faculty and students were considered part of the clergy and were required to don the ecclesiastical dress, roba and caputum, patterned after the habit of the Benedictine Order. The regalia also served a practical purpose, providing warmth in the unheated stone buildings of most medieval universities.

In the United States, caps and gowns had been in limited use by colleges and universities since Colonial times. It was not until a century later that a widespread student movement resulted in the formal use of the attire at commencement ceremonies. Faculty members readily accepted the return to a dignified and traditional dress for graduations and soon extended the custom to other formal academic functions. By 1895, a uniform code for academic dress had been adopted in the United States, and although no formal worldwide standards have ever existed, certain basic and traditional elements are evident in most academic attire.

The Gowns

Participants in academic ceremonies are expected to wear the regalia to which they are entitled by virtue of the highest degree they hold.

Gowns worn by those with bachelor’s degrees are distinguishable by a semi-stiff yoke, long pleated front, intricate shirring across the shoulders and back and long pointed sleeves open at the wrists. The gown must be worn closed.

Master’s degree holders wear a similar gown of either silk or wool with the same yoke effect as the bachelor’s degree robe. The master’s gown may be worn either open or closed in the front. Other variations in the master’s degree gown include oblong and square cut sleeves closed at the wrists and an arc-like section of material in the front of the garment.

The doctor’s gown, also worn either open or closed, is usually made of silk and velvet with full and round sleeves open at the wrists. These gowns are distinguished by long velvet panels down the front of the gown and three horizontal velvet sleeve bars, which may be either black or the color distinctive of the academic discipline in which the individual holds the doctoral degree. Although the color of these gowns is traditionally black, some institutions have adopted robes in their school colors.

The Caps

The most familiar item of academic regalia is the Oxford or mortarboard cap with its distinctive tassel. Explanations of its origin include suggestions that its shape was inspired by the quadrangular Oxford campus or by the actual master workman’s mortarboard. Perhaps a more plausible theory is that it was designed flat and about the size of a scholar’s book for ease in carrying. Material for most caps varies from serge and broadcloth to rayon and silk, although caps worn by doctoral degree recipients may be of velvet.

The most distinctive feature of the cap is the tassel, which is positioned to hang from the left front quadrant of the cap. The tassel is black for bachelor’s and master’s degree holders, but gold for Ph.D.’s and the primary governing officials of an institution. While the mortarboard cap is used by the vast majority of institutions around the world, some schools have adopted a soft, square-topped cap, but still retain the tassel.
The Hoods

The most distinctive feature of academic attire, the hood lends color and definition to academic ceremonies. Once used as a head covering, a shoulder cape and even a receptacle for collecting alms in medieval times, the hood is now a purely ceremonial black shell of varying sizes and colored borders suspended from the shoulders and worn down the back.

The significance of academic hoods is symbolized in their varying lengths and the colors and thicknesses of their velvet linings and trim. The bachelor's hood, for example, is three feet long with a two-inch-wide velvet border. Master's degree recipients wear a hood three-and-a-half feet long with a three-inch border. Doctoral hoods are four feet long and have a five-inch-wide border.

More distinctive, however, are the colors of the hoods' inner linings and outer trim. The colors of the inner lining correspond to the colors of the institution conferring the degree, while the colors of the border designate the academic discipline in which the degree was granted. The Mace

The mace, a traditional symbol of authority, is carried in the academic procession by the grand marshal. The Fairleigh Dickinson University mace was presented to the University in 1957 by Mr. and Mrs. Leo Pollak of New York City. It is one of only three maces of its type in the United States and was purchased for the University from Seymour B. Wyler, author of The Book of Sheffield Plate and The Book of Old Silver.

A very rare example of 18th-century Sheffield plate, it was made in 1765 for the Riddell family and bears its crest. A member of that family was an English representative to the Holland town of Duysberg.

THE PRESIDENT’S MEDALLION

Along with the traditional academic regalia and trappings common to colleges and universities throughout the United States, most institutions also possess some unique or distinctive symbol of the presidential office that is conveyed through succeeding administrations. Fairleigh Dickinson University commissioned the design and crafting of a President’s Medallion for the inauguration of Robert H. Donaldson on March 29, 1985.

The President’s Medallion is in the form of a hexagonal shield, a variation of the University “Shield of Arms.” In the center of the Medallion is the gold-plated coat of arms. The motto, Fortiter et Suaviter (Bravely and Pleasurably), is engraved above the shield, and around it are engraved the words “Fairleigh Dickinson University 1942.” The gold-plated frame of the Medallion is surmounted by a crest consisting of buildings symbolizing the campuses.

Kurt J. Matzdorf, professor emeritus of gold and silversmithing at the State University of New York, College at New Paltz, and internationally known for his ceremonial and religious silver, designed and created the President’s Medallion.

ALMA MATER

Goodhart-Davis

Praise to thee, O Alma Mater, faithfully we sing,
Hear our joyful voices ringing, Fairleigh Dickinson.
Campus halls, that oft recall us, memories will bring,
Campus lights will ever guide us, when the day is done.

Chorus
Alma Mater, we will cherish each day of the years
We were privileged to spend here, tho’ our parting nears.

AULD LANG SYNE

Should auld acquaintance be forgot,
And never brought to mind?
Should auld acquaintance be forgot,
And years of auld lang syne?
For auld lang syne, my dear,
For auld lang syne.
We’ll take a cup of kindness yet,
For auld lang syne.
DEGREE CANDIDATES
