Master of Administrative Science (M.A.S.)

The Master of Administrative Science (M.A.S.) graduate degree program, offered through the University's Anthony J. Petrocelli College of Continuing Studies School of Administrative Science, is a 30-credit program at Vancouver.

It utilizes in-person instruction and is designed to develop and sharpen critical managerial and leadership skills among students who aspire to careers in which leadership skills are essential and who desire a degree program that offers specializations that are not commonly offered in more traditional programs. The curriculum ranges widely in scope and range of subject matter — with a core curriculum, six specializations and a capstone course.

The core and specialization courses bridge two competency areas: 1) administrative competencies and 2) analytical and decision-making competencies. Students must take a total of six courses (18 credits) in administrative competencies, three courses (9 credits) in analytical and decision-making competencies and one capstone course (MADS6612 Seminar in Strategic Management – Capstone). All core and capstone courses (18 credits) are delivered in person. Specialization courses are delivered in person.

Six specializations are offered to students in Vancouver — computer security and forensic administration, emergency management administration, global health and human services administration, global leadership and administration, global technology administration and human resources administration.

Admission Requirements

Students will be admitted to the M.A.S. program on an application-deadline model, with an intake each term.

For admission, students must meet the following criteria:

1. Graduated from an accredited four-year bachelor's degree program or equivalent.
2. Maintained a cumulative grade point ratio of 2.75 ("B-") in their undergraduate studies.

3. Demonstrated proficiency in communication of the English language (for international students whose first language is not English or who did not complete their degrees in the United States or Canada).

Application Deadlines

Fall Term: April 1. Admission results released up to June 15.

Spring Term: August 1. Admission results released up to October 15.

Summer Term: December 1. Admission results released up to February 15.

Required Documents

1. Completed online application form: <https://www.applyweb.com/fdu/index/ftl>.

2. Copies of the documents must be submitted together with the online application: attested or official transcripts, academic records, diplomas, national examination results, certificates or degrees received from all post-secondary institutions, universities and/or professional schools. If the documents are not in English, certified translation is required.

3. Two recommendation letters. It is advised that at least one letter is an academic reference.

4. Answers to three essay questions in the application form outlining personal interests and career goals.

5. Proof of English proficiency if the student's first language is not English or if the students did not complete their degrees in the United States or Canada.

6. Copy of passport information page.

7. Résumé (recommended).

Admission Procedures

Admission into the Master of Administrative Science program is highly competitive and is based on the deadline model. All applicants who applied for the term are evaluated and ranked. Only selected students receive admission into the program. Each intake is unique and depends on the number of seats available in the term, as well as the number and quality of applicants.

Master of Science in Hospitality Management Studies (M.S.)

The Master of Science degree in hospitality management studies, which consists of 33 credits, is structured to meet the educational needs of adult learners working as managers, entrepreneurs, educators or other professionals in the hospitality industry. It is designed to provide an educational alternative for working professionals with an academically rigorous, yet flexible, program of study that meets the requirements for a professional master's degree. For working adults seeking to upgrade their professional skills to enhance their careers, the degree program increases analytical, managerial and leadership competencies and provides graduates with the requisite preparation for career advancement in various hospitality-related professional areas.

This program is offered under the auspices of the International School of Hospitality and Tourism Management, Anthony J. Petrocelli College of Continuing Studies.

Admission Requirements

Candidates for admission to the Master of Science in hospitality management studies degree program could be managers, business owners or educators or hold other professional positions related to the hospitality industry. The credentials required for admission as a matriculated student include the following:

1. Graduated from an accredited four-year bachelor's degree program or equivalent.
2. Maintained a cumulative grade point ratio of 2.75 ("B-") or equivalent in their undergraduate studies.
3. Demonstrated proficiency, both written and verbal, of the English language (for international students whose first language is not English or who did not complete their degrees in the United States or Canada).

4. Industry work experience preferred (applicants without industry work experience may be required to take foundation courses HRTM6100 Hospitality Operations Management and HRTM6200 Tourism Destination Management upon evaluation).

Application Deadlines

Fall Term: August 1.

Spring Term: December 1.

Summer Term: April 1.

Required Documents

1. Completed online application form:
