

FAIRLEIGH
DICKINSON UNIVERSITY

Grants and Sponsored Projects

Could the National Institutes of Health (NIH) Repay Your Student Loans?

Join us for a virtual workshop to learn about the National Institutes of Health (NIH) Loan Repayment Programs (LRP) and hear firsthand from an FDU faculty member who successfully received an award.

The NIH LRP can help eligible researchers repay qualified educational debt while they pursue careers in biomedical, behavioral, social, and clinical research.

Friday
October 23, 2026
10:00am-11:00am EST

Virtual (Zoom)

Who Should Attend?

FDU faculty and researchers with doctoral-level degrees who are pursuing or developing careers in health-related research and have educational debt.

WHAT YOU WILL LEARN

The session will include an overview of the NIH Loan Repayment Program, including:

How the program works

Who is eligible to apply

Which educational loans may qualify

Research and career requirements

The application process and key components

How FDU can support faculty interested in applying

HEAR FROM AN FDU NIH LRP RECIPIENT

Dr. Melissa Slavin

*Assistant Professor
Marion Turpan College of Psychology & Counseling*

Dr. Slavin will share her firsthand experience with the program, including her application journey, lessons learned, and insights for faculty considering applying.

REGISTER NOW

<https://fd�.zoom.us/meeting/register/eMS00pzkTn6-7FV4fK5BVA>

